

Professional development available online

Contact

lmshelp@curriculum.wa.edu.au

The Curriculum Council's online professional development is now available. Teachers can access professional development for the following courses through the Council's website at http://www.curriculum.wa.edu.au/internet/Online_PD. The professional development can be worked through at a time and pace to suit the individual.

Accounting and Finance	Human Biological Science
Ancient History	Indonesian: Second Language
Animal Production Systems	Integrated Science
Automotive Engineering and Technology	Japanese: Second Language
Biological Sciences	Literature
Building and Construction	Mathematics
Business Management and Enterprise	Mathematics: Specialist
Chemistry	Modern History
Children, Family and the Community	Music
Design	Physics
Economics	Plant Production Systems
Food Science and Technology	Politics and Law
French	Religion and Life
Geography	Visual Arts
German	Workplace Learning
Health Studies

The Council has received positive feedback from participants about the user-friendliness of this system. The Council strongly encourages teachers to access the course-specific professional development to assist in their understanding and implementation of the WACE courses.

Teachers who wish to enrol in more than one online professional development course should email lmshelp@curriculum.wa.edu.au after they have registered.

Teachers may access the online learning for a number of reasons:

- to access support materials – locate a range of support materials and other useful resources
- to gain general access – find information and resources and engage in online collaborative discussion and sharing with colleagues around the State through discussion boards
- to gain accreditation – participate in a program of modules for professional development credit and recognition.

The online professional development for all other courses and endorsed programs will be available in Semester 2 2009. The VET industry specific and integrated programs online professional development will be available from 22 June.